THIS is the crew of the "Mariner". Through hand copy, typed copy, art work, layout, arrangements, letters, and bills, the yearbook was their baby. Now it is yours and welcome. It is the sincere hope of the staff that it will meet with your approval, for it was a long, hard grind to bring it to you.

Publishing this yearbook required a procedure entirely different from any previous annual production at Harbor High School. There have been choices to make and decisions, and always the problems of time and money to contend with. There are qualities in which this book are sadly lacking. In other matters careful thought has made it very satisfactory.

Note the woebegone expressions in the picture. Perhaps such scowling was caused by their long slavings; and then, again, it might be the glare of the sun . . . .

Foreword

EACH succeeding Spring is witness to another class casting clearer eyes about old stairwells and doorways long since regarded as dull and commonplace. The old doors are the same doors that have always stood arching between rooms and halls, but in this last look they take on a new aspect; they no longer represent passages through which students file to class - now they are exits and entrances in the true sense of the words.

There is always something magical about doors and stairways. The magic lies in the strange paths which lead from them, nor is any path like another. Our lives are woven through strange doors and winding stairways, an unknown blending of exits and entrances, and our lives, too, retain some of that magic even after our last mysterious exit.

When suddenly we are faced with yet another door to open, having reached the termination of high school, there is one moment of hesitancy in which we seem to be visioning old sights in a different light. It may be on the last day or perhaps during the last year, but there comes a moment when we stare hard at each door, as though by such intent dwelling on every splinter of wood or time-worn knotch, we could absorb the whole picture of the school in fine detail and lock it forever in our memory. That is the moment when the old doors become exits and stairways entrances, for in June we walk down the stairs seniors and as magically are seniors no more.

We offer this 1951 annual as a magical volume to any and all who have contributed to, strengthened and loved Harbor High School. But especially to the class which has left this Spring, may this book be an ever-present memory of the doors and stairways we have passed through and an inspiration for those we have yet to enter.

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING

THIS year the citizens of the Harbor have chosen to do something about providing for the growth in the population of school children. It has become necessary to have a grade school class in the high school building, thus pushing classes together to make room for the grades. The Bond Issue, providing funds amounting to $650,000, will enable the school to build a much needed gymnasium at $357,000 plus $37,000 for furnishings and fixtures, as well as the addition to the Washington Building and remodeling of the present building at $256,000. The gymnasium will be built facing West Third Street, and the addition to the Washington Building will be constructed at Lake Avenue and West Ninth Street.

Slogan and essay contests were held to stimulate the students to talk and think "Bond Issue" in the homes. The prize winning essays, of 400 words or less, were read over WICA, or printed in the Mariner. Winners whose essays were read over WICA were Suann Smith, Lynn Clark, and Tim McDonel, all seniors. Those whose essays were printed in the Mariner were Bernie Nordgren and Marian L. Johnson, seniors, and Norma Krans, sophomore.

Community progress was assured by a seventy per cent vote in favor of the Bond Issue on November 7, 1950. Hearty thanks to Harbor's citizens!

TO THE SENIORS OF 1951 -

IN the period immediately ahead you will be called upon to make the most significant decisions of your life.

You are probably approaching commencement with mingled feelings of happiness and regret. Happiness is your dividend for a piece of work well done but regrets creep in as you realize you must soon sever so many worthy friendships. Commencement should be a very happy time; a day to enjoy the fruits of victory.

Commencement is really the end of the beginning. It ends one apprenticeship of life. During your school years all people who have had any influence in your education have shared their experience with you in order to create for you an educational environment which is both stimulating and challenging. Your teachers have stressed as one objective that a good education should prepare you for successful and happy living.

As you leave high school to enter college or join the professions, you will find a very competitive world. Everyone will be trying to gain from life the things you value most. You will find ruthless methods of competition practiced and you will also find many fine people playing the game of life by the Golden Rule.

In your future you will find need for guidance in many things. There is one suggestion I wish to make. If followed, it will pay dividends in happy living.

One of the most commendable traits in human beings is the acquired habit of looking for the good in others and telling them about it - the habit of complimenting when it is deserved. Complimenting is working with God according to George Macdonald who wrote, "If I can put one touch of rosy sunset into the life of any man, I shall feel that I have worked with God".

By complimenting and commending we pyramid friendships. We thus gain strength and courage to overcome our own difficulties.

We like to think that good education is a heritage here at the Harbor. As you leave us, you will be greatly missed. You have made a definite contribution to this heritage of good education. We are all better for your having been here and attending our schools.

The members of our faculty, the Board of Education and I hope you experience all the joys of a great commencement and wish you Godspeed as you leave us.

Senior Class History

SHHHHH .... WE'RE REMEMBERING ..... ! Maybe commencement seems like the end of a long, hard road, but was it really so long ago when we trouped in from the Washington and Jackson Buildings ... ? Two allotments of curious kids feigning nonchalance, with not so much as a smile for the other group ("Our building is better!" was the chip on our shoulders). . . Yeah, we were tuffies then - but why not? Here was a whole high school of upper classmen; to get anywhere we had to be tough . . . we were "the babies".

We did our share of elbowing in the halls and walking (too fast!) up the wrong stairs . . . For the first time many of us heard Mrs. Burns nearly distracted by our lacking knowledge of the King's English, and Mrs. Casbourne telling of the eternal wonders of her farm and family . . . How tall the seniors seem - particularly to some of us like Robert Sneary, Carole Norris, Delores Beckman, Bob Eddy and Joan Cable . . . We latched firmly to Miss Wisman as our adviser, and deskfull of books in arm, faithfully acted as though each bell was a fire alarm.

Those were the days when Shirley Brown's hair hung in two long red plaits, when dates were scorned, when great numbers of us were forced into duty on the chiseler's squad (and quite fittingly, too, since our gum chewing days had begun in earnest!)

Mr Fawcett and Mr. Wenner inspired fear in our young hearts at every office-call; it would take a little time to realize their great wealth of kindness, never to be equalled . .

"There's one a'them new kids ...." we were old hands now as freshmen and took an avid interest in the Mother of Sorrows" students "just come over" . . . Regardless, we were herded to the other side of the gym for basketball games; how many times were your toes mashed by massive monsters out-of-bounds?

Can you forget the effrontery of the seniors to gloat, "There will be a dance Saturday night. All the junior high is invited to attend the Harbor Show!" ....? Or the appearance of the new ultra-modern gym suit ....?

We became upperclassmen suddenly, after having passed the crucial tests of Mrs. Eddy's "method" and unforgetable history from Mr. Edmunds .... By now our class had changed a little ..... some had left the fold, others had come ..... but in a way we always were about the same .... We were Harbor's class of '51, and no other.

Remember further back to grade school? .... those of us who transferred from other towns are harder to trace, but here in Ashtabula which of us can forget the operettas . . . . . In third grade, amid a stage-frightened crew of petunias, cauliflowers, bumblebees and other fowl, were a petrified "Jack Frost" (Fritz Cornwell) and an equally unsteady "Spring" (Carole Johnson) . . . . . More mature, as sixth graders, we launched "Tom Sawyer", with barefooted Ken Brace ("Tom") and Dave Lehtoma ("Huck") on the shaky soprano . . . . . Brandishing a threatening stick, Suann Smith ("Aunt Polly") scowled up at the miscreant, a good five inches taller . . . ! And Esther Koi with pantalettes was ("Becky").

There were goldfish, white mice and Miss Tilton in Kindergarten, and best of all, NAPS! See, now --- that wasn't so long ago! And what is more, the best isn't over yet; the best is always now.

SENIOR CLASS

Last Will and Testament of the Class Of 1951

WE, the graduating class of 1951, Harbor High School, Ashtabula Harbor, County of Ashtabula, State of Ohio, United States of America, being in sound and disposing mind and memory, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament, hereby revoking and annulling any and all will or wills made heretofore:

First:- Our will is that Harbor High remember, if only occasionally, that we were, for the space of one year, its senior class; for we, in turn shall never quite forget Harbor High. The remembrance of an orange brick building, oft-climbed stairs, personally engraved desks, the metallic clang of locker doors - these will never be lost.

Second:- That some considerate soul keep one eye out for the red ivy which clings through the seasons to the old bricks. It would be thoughtless to neglect it, for it has seen so many graduates leave.

Item 1. - To those not yet seventh graders we bequeath our first memories of Harbor High School: guard them jealously and pass them on when you are seniors. Yours are the endearing farm stories with only Mrs. Casbourne's sparkle as narrator; you will cherish them someday as we do. Yours are also the amazement ot the length of the day and the height of the seniors; Yours, too, the great love of Openhouse and Spring Carnival, the unfailing ability to do the wrong thing at the right time, and the awe of Mr. Fawcett on registration day .

Item 2. - To the junior high we bequeath the "salad days" of our school life when we were not a little "green in judgment." We leave you these memories so that you will see that there was no difference between us: we had no qualms, either, of sticking gum under the assembly seats, heckling finger-clinging couples, or converting fire drills into circus stampedes. To you we leave Ivanhoe, first lipstick, and disdain of education.

Last Will and Testament of the Class Of 1951

Item 3. - To the sophomores we leave the memories of a year centered around the perplexing study of the amoeba, the first class play, and the wonderful feeling of exhilaration at being in the senior high and not having to sit on the other side of the gym at basketball games. You may have that warped board on the second floor, too, and a hectic year ahead as juniors.

Item 4. - To the juniors (and seniors-to-be) we leave all that goes with that last year: the privileges that we seemed to take for granted; that constant repetition of "those who expect to graduate ..."; duties in the Snack-Shack and in the Traffic Squad; the rush for senior pictures, cap and gown measurements, and commencement rehearsal; Miss Wisman, Mr. Meehan, strains of "Pomp and Circumstance," and every other good thing that we knew. Love these simple memories, it our word to you And lastly, always strive. You may not excel, but always strive.

Item 5. - To our teachers we leave another set of used and inked record books. To you we leave a list of names which will mean vacancies only until a new horde from the Jackson and Washington Buildings pour in to fill the empty seats. Our friendship and appreciation are yours forever, and memories of familiar rooms and faces we shall lock in our hearts to cherish.

Item 6. - To Harbor itself we bequeath the record of the class and such things as our lockers which proved a little too heavy to take with us.

* * * * * * * * * *

In testimony whereof we have set our hands to this our last will and testament at Ashtabula Harbor, Ohio, this twenty-seventh day of May in the year of Our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fifty-one.

THE GRADUATING CLASS

Class Honors

VALEDICTORIAN - TIM McDONEL

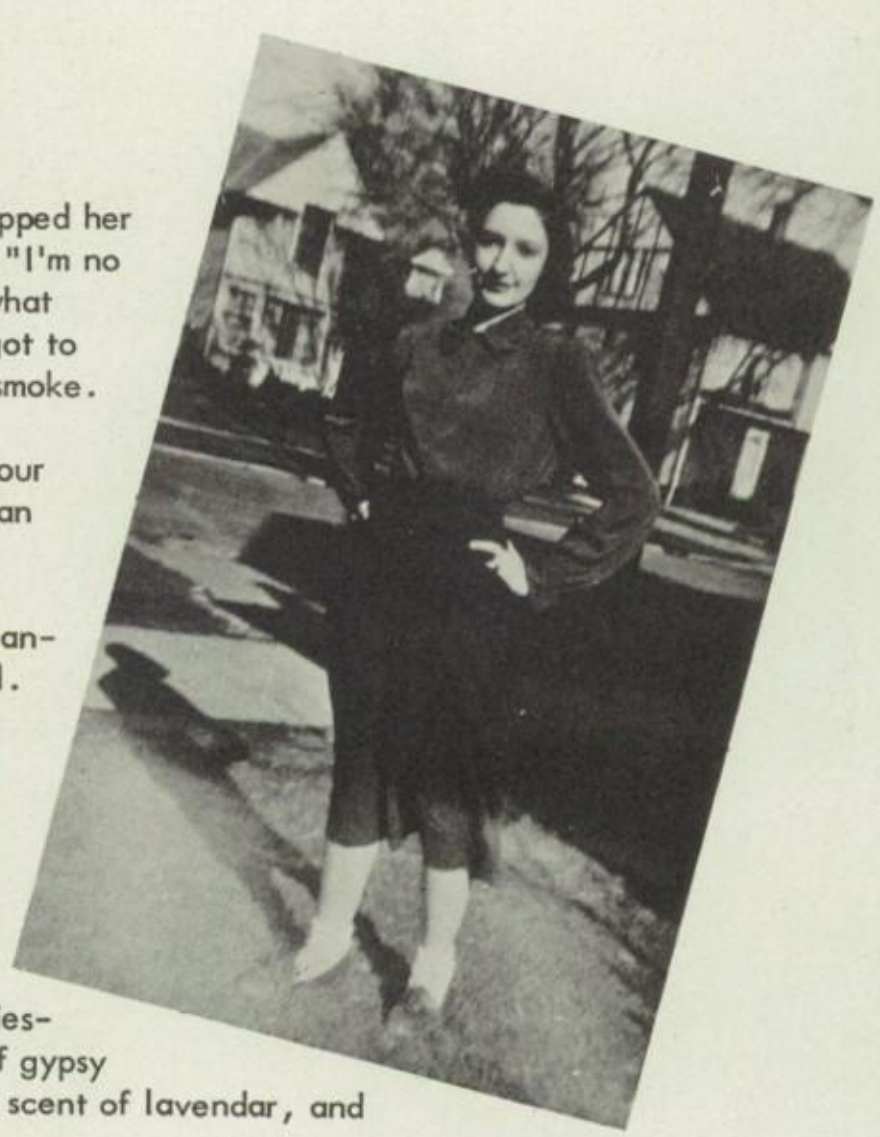
TIM'S dreams are in the smoke and pungent fumes of the test tube's carefully blended formulas, for there is found chemistry, and there, his designs for the future.

Not originally a local boy, Tim arrived on our scene in '50 to add the highest scholastic honors to his class. Valedictorian, he holds a grade point rating of 4.000, which calls for a straight A average through high school.

A serious, pensive Scot, by the beard of Robert Bruce! and holding no great love for a first name of Everett, he is a man of reason, dry wit, and well-chosen words.

Since chemistry's his aim (despite a threatening draft!), the lab's his haven; but other activities own him past-master, too. Here, in padded pigskin garb, he is absorbed in the manly art of ball, though less rugged organizations also find his shrewdness of value.

Tim graduates outstanding in scholastic merit, and ready material for the advancement of science.



SALUTATORIAN - CAROLE JOHNSON

THIS miss is the salutatorian. Carole's grade ratio copped her the second rank in the class; "how", she doesn't know. "I'm no scholar. I only took what I wanted," unquote. Took what she wanted is right! She thought she liked chemistry, got to the glass-bending stage, and let that subject go up in smoke.

"Downstage, center" was her particular paradise; your winged seraph couldn't feel more at home in heaven than Carole -just behind the footlights!

While the "Johnson" places her with one foot in Scan-avia (Svenska), mamma's clan was true to old John Bull. Carole's English wit shone through her Mariner column "The Top Drawer" in which she weekly produced about 400 words of school shop talk with underlying elements of both sense and nonsense. What's more, she paints and has the medals and ribbons to prove it.

She dotes upon old books, new shoes, fruitwood furniture, her Doberman pinscer, Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley, costume jewelry, particularly a string of gypsy beads, imported tea, early spring and late autumn, the scent of lavendar, and the time of day just before dawn.

She despises radiators, raw oysters, the smell of clorox, and people who do not like children. She wishes she might some day live in a house with tradition enough to have a family ghost.

Spanish Club

Senior Girls' Club

AT least to the female element in the class (perhaps the male, too!) the Senior Girls' Club is the best organized of all groups.

Meetings are semi-monthly and aid greatly in helping the girls become better acquainted with themselves, their classmates, and the logical workings of those parts of school life for which they are responsible.

With the aid of a committee of the fellows, a few of the girls plan and announce all Thursday morning assemblies, thus giving further enjoyment to the school.

At the end of each year the club presents practical gifts to the school. These gifts are the result of steady work throughout the school year. During the football and track seasons, the gals have charge of the Snack Shack at Wenner Field plus their year-round sale of candy and patato chips at noon and after school. More money is added to their funds through concessions at the Carnival and various other projects.

The Pilot Club

THIS organization consists of all male members of the Senior class. The object of the club is to promote a spirit of cooperation between the students and the teachers, but the yearning to initiate the Junior boys come spring is really their driving urge! Three of the men of the faculty are chosen each year as sponsors of the club by the boys, and they assist in the meetings which are held the second Tuesday of the month.

Another aim of the club is to develop its members in leadership (the former name of the organization was "The Leaders' Club"). To help further this development, the club has maintained an efficient traffic squad during the past six years.

The Pilots join with the Senior Girls several times a year to sponsor dances, announce chapel programs, and contribute their utmost to the smooth functioning of the school. They also show their competitive spirit in their carnival concessions.

The Weekly Mariner

CAROLE JOHNSON

EDITOR'S NOTE:

TO the unprepared who venture into Room 8 during the latter part of the week, all semblance to rational people at work has disappeared; Bethlehem Hospital (Bedlam to you) never counted as it's inmates more UNrational creatures than are found here about Wednesday at noon. Out of the din of presses, shouting, rewriting, proofing linotype and printer's ink, comes Harbor's weekly Mariner.

This year the Mariner, delivered free of charge to every home in the Harbor, was managed in much the same way as in previous years, always with the indispensable advice of Mr. W. F. Behrendt, who in reality is make-up editor and chief errand-boy as well as journalistic consultant.

Editor of the Mariner for the 1950-51 year was Carole Johnson, Journalism student of two years - the only senior staff member and a member of the National Quill and Scroll Honor Society. (The entire Masthead for the paper is listed on the previous page.) As well as editing the paper, Carole was also columnist with her column "The Top Drawer" which she originated and has written during her terms on the staff.

Journalism is taught for a semester before placement on the Mariner staff. Printing classes supply boys needed to set headlines, run papers and perform other tasks necessary to put an issue to bed (editorial shop-talk!)

Written, edited and printed every Friday of the school year (except in case of cyclone, earthquake, or flood) by a student staff, the Mariner comes to you through the courtesy of those reckless enough to plunge into and stable enough to cope with the welter of the press.

The Band – –

ANOTHER year of intense activity has been the pattern followed by the Concert and Marching Band of Harbor High.

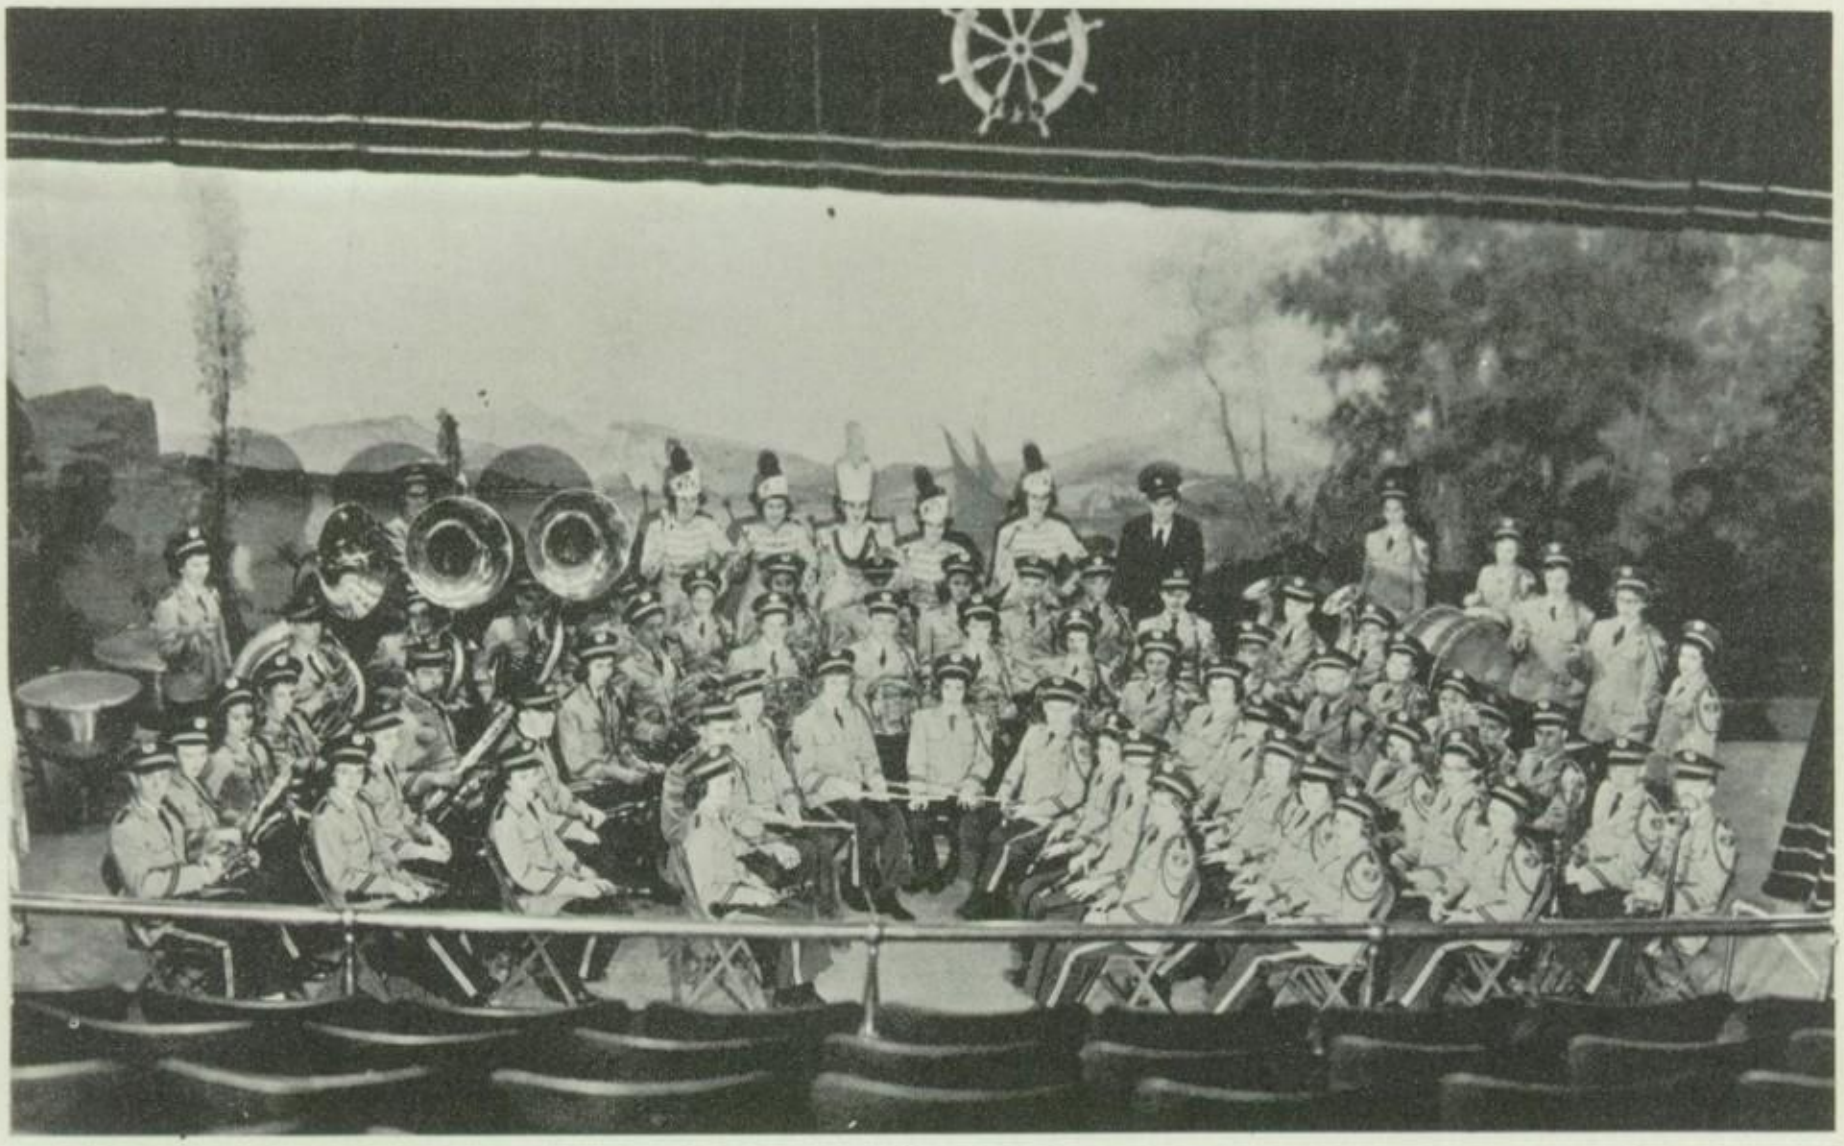
Beginning with participation in the North End Street Fair, and following through with numerous interesting and well-presented appearances on the football field, the members of the Band and the majorettes, headed by Barbara Nieminen, kept a busy fall schedule.

Under the splendid direction of Mr. Fred R. Walker, a mid-winter concert was presented by the Senior Band, the majorettes and the Elementary Band. The numbers were varied and interesting. A recording was made of parts of this program and broadcast over radio station W I C A.

In addition to the regular Band numbers, there were several special numbers which included a cornet trio by Roger Hyppa, David Belknap, and Alfred Talvola, who are elementary band members and who were accompanied by Marvis Esko; also The Lord's Prayer, in which Shirley Brown, a senior, was vocalist, accompanied by Eleanore Fuller, freshman harpist, and by the entire band. Another interesting number was a selection by drummers, Marion Johnson, Lorraine Wilpula, seniors, and Mariel Herlevi and Mary Stevens, freshmen.

A humorous skit entitled "The One-Armed Paper Hanger" featuring Francis McGrath (to say nothing of Mr. Walker's "longies") was given in the Varieties on February 14.

A superior rating was earned by the Band at the district contests in Leavittsburgh, Ohio. The required number was the "First Swedish Rhapsody" by Erick Leidzen, and the selective number was "First Suite in E-Flat for Military Band" by Gustav Holst.



The Band had their annual Spring Concert on Sunday, April 29th, in which they played several varied and interesting numbers. The Band's final appearance for the year was at Commencement.

Much faithful practice work and cooperation is reflected in the work of the Band and helped them to succeed this year.

And the Choir

THE Senior A Cappella Choir, steered by director Ray J. Bumgarner for the second year, sand hard and fast, with a series of public appearances that would have floored them in past years. The fact that an all-out campaign was staged after copping a district rating of "I" (Superior) at Leavittsburgh to boost them on to the state auditions bolstered everybody, basso to colouratura.

Persistent grilling at each rehearsal, coats discarded, and windows thrown open every Tuesday 2nd, Thursday 4th, and Friday 3rd was their fare. Since section practice had been dropped the previous year, time was now a precious something to be well-spent when available.

Looking backward, there were Rotary, Exchange, Lion's Kiwanis, and Women's Clubs; the N.E.O.P.-T.A. Convention and our own P.-T.A.; Mother's Day Concert, Baccalaureate, Commencement, the contests, and what-have-you. From this viewpoint Harbor warblers were on no picnic. Plenty of lunch periods had to be cut short, and plenty of jostling endured on school buses, with robes and stoles over arms.

About April saw the advent of enthusiastic music boosters, their telephoning committees on the go, and fiery meetings under way - and all for the sake of the trip to state and another gamble with the judges. Out of nowhere came contributions and the financing was arranged as neatly as-you-please; Four Greyhound Buses were contracted.

They did it again. After an all-day excursion Mr. Bumgarner, choir and chaperones met the welcoming committee with another "I"!

From the ranks on the risers meet the altos:

The bass section:

The sopranos:

And tenors:

Marian Orqvist also was accompanist. Officers elected for the 50-51 year were Charles Koski, president; David Lesperance, vice-president; Marie Kondas, secretary-treasurer.

"Beyond the Blue Horizon", "This is My Country" (Waring arrangements), "Ifca's Castle" (a Czech round), and "Black Is the Color of My True Love's Hair" (mountain love ballad) were oft-repeated favorites. "Sleep Baby Sleep" by Robert Shaw, proved an audience-jerker. This lullaby was an old number for the choir.

The long-practiced baccalaureate numbers were "Emmitte Spiritum Tuum" and "Come, Thou Holy Spirit", the latter having earned an "I" rating for the Harbor choir in 1949. Commencement selections "Let All the Nations (Praise the Lord)" and "The Pilgrim's Chorus" (Wagner's "Lohengrin") were followed by the "Harbor Humn" (Grender) and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You" (perennial benediction), and marked the end of a most illustrious choral year.

The Mariner Varieties

ON THE night of February 14, students and faculty members presented the tenth Annual Mariner Varieties. The auditorium was jammed, and the bos office reported that the attempt to finance the sending of Mariners to Harborites in the armed services had been a success.

Mrs. Helia Lehtinen, again as general production chairman, and her staff presented both a matinee and evening performance of the Varieties and, in the opinion of many, out-did themselves. The result was one grand piece of show business.

The song-and-dance routine prevailed, with a skit or two scattered here and there. (The dramatics Club's choral reading of "The Congo" was a new twist.) Shown here are four well-applauded acts: top left, pictures the band skit, "The One-Armed Paperhanger," featuring bestogied Francis McGrath and his magic violin Kraut at right is Kenneth Brace; Donna Davidson drools into clarinet at back. At left center, the traditional Brenda-Cobina act. In an ultra-Bronx lingo a disarming Cobina (Carole Johnson) and a torrid Brenda (Joan Cable) toss honeyed but venomous remarks at each other.

THE 1950 SEASON

AFTER an onslaught of critical team injuries and hard luck, Harbor's 1950 gridders wound up their season with a record of three wins and six losses.

Opening the season at Jefferson, the Mariners recorded a 20-0 victory. Lesperance recovered a fumble in the Jefferson end zone for the first T. D. of the year. Craft scored the next two touchdowns, and Laaksonen kicked two extra points. A touchback finished the scoring for the game.

Harbor beat Cleveland Brush 19-12 for their second straight victory. Sherry scored Harbor's first T. D. when he reeled off a 90 yard run on an intercepted pass. Sasso scored the second Mariner touchdown. Brush scored once in the first and third quarter to end the scoring threat. The final Harbor tally was made by Craft.

Willoughby handed the Mariners their first loss of the season, 32-0, in the next game. Willoughby scored twice in the first and third period and once in the fourth.

Ashtabula was next on the schedule and the Mariners went down to a 58-0 defeat. The Mariners forfeited to Painesville as a result of injuries accumulated in the previous games.

Traveling to Geneva, Harbor was defeated 40-0, but came back in the following game to beat Perry 20-12. Harbor scorred first on a pass-play, and the next two touchdowns were made by Laaksonen and Behrendt successively. Perry scored in the first and third quarters.

Harbor fell to Mentor for their fourth consecutive Lake Shore League loss. The Mariners scored for the first time in league action with a pass from Behrendt to Palagyi. Laaksonen and Behrendt scored the next two tallies. Mentor scored once in the first period and four times in the third to make the score 34-19.

Harbor traveled to Conneaut for the season's final game. The Seamen, falling 32-0, ended the 1950 Football Season.

Calendar
Of 1950-51 Events

Aug. 28 - Registration week. "Looks like somebody cleaned the old joint up."

Sept. 5 - Frosh: "Did you ever see such a young-looking seventh grade?"
Soph: "I'd give just about anything to be swimming at Walnut Beach right now."
Junior: "Pretty cute class of eighth graders, if you noticed. Some of the girls wearing lipstick, even."
Senior: "Seems funny that no one's in school this year!"

Sept. 6 - Students required to purchase new 50 cent H-Book. Many grumbling upper classmen slipped I. O. U.'s to David Clark in the bookroom.

Sept. 9 - North End Club Street Fair. "Will you go with me on the Whip?" Mr. Bob Koski, perennial bandstand master of ceremonies, shouted out the winners of doll and pet contests. Coaches slunk through crowd looking for football players sitting on porches after hours.

Sept. 10 - Since it is already the fifth day of school, teachers are now familiar with the names of most of the students except those who had brothers, sisters, or cousins in school ahead of them. Latecomers will always be called by the names of their former relatives.

Sept. 22 - New checking system in operation; result: general confusion, "Hey kid - what now? Where's everybody goin'?"

Sept. 23 - Senior High Openhouse. Senior boys wished they were back at Geneva-on-the-Lake. Senior girls wished they were, too. P.-T.A. had spent all afternoon cooking for nothing.

Sept. 25 - New boilers on the blink: vacation. McKinley and Jackson blue with cold; Washington green with envy.

Sept. 30 - Squad still suffering from burns received at Jefferson-game from caustic lime on soggy c field. Trousers prove torture.

Oct. 10 - Ventilating system still object of much attention; workers bearing tools trudge back and forth through the Mariner room, but dust and frost are driving editor Johnson and staff nuts!

Oct. 13 - Mr. Meehan complains that Rae Harmon and Marie Kondas are freezing the cokes in the coca-cola machine. Teachers complain that too many football players are taking naps in the Coaches' office. Mr. Lanham complains that there is too much confusion Friday 6th period. Harbor remains Harbor.

Oct. 27 - N. E. O. T. A. at Cleveland Public Hall; student body hysterical with joy at Friday being free. Faculty likewise.

Oct. 30 - Our usual Hallowe'en admonition delivered in chapel.

Nov. 17 - Senior class play "Tish" proved success, tho' Dave Lehtoma nearly lost his mustache at the matinee. After-play celebration held at Tom Scott's; no pool this year.

Nov. 23 - All vacate building for Thanksgiving. But coming back proved a problem: the big snows came, teachers stranded in hick towns, and Harbor remained snowbound for two extra days!

Dec. 1 - Seniors took peg-in-hole test to indicate potential occupational abilities.

Dec. 13 - Football banquet at Swedish Lutheran: Gifts to Messrs. Crider, Mihalik, Kiikka; piece of pie dropped in Fred Saverice's lap.

Dec. 16. - School in uproar: second floor strewn with angel hair and ornaments as gals decorate; rehearsals for Christmas Med. going strong.

Dec. 21 - Desks and lockers cleaned: Miss Wisman and Mr. Gray in charge of picking up pop bottles and gym suits left along upper hall. Recognition for footballers and Nat. Honor Society; Christmas Meditation - then Vacation!

Dec. 22 - Christmas dance in gym conducted by Sr. Girls and Pilot Club. Someone should really buy new blue and red lights so you can see who you're talking to!

Calendar
Of 1950-51 Events

Jan. 3 - First day after vacation. There comes a time in every man's life when the bell rings before he gets there.

Jan. 8 - Mrs. Casbourne plunges into another tax stamp drive with financially embarrassed Jr. Red Cross.

Jan. 10 - Suddenly, no water in the building! Giving all due regard to the needle-ice we took the afternoon off.

Jan. 19 - End of first semester. About the only things coming down these days are rain and grades.

Jan. 22 - Everyone gave up and went back to the old way of checking in.

Feb. 19 - Deep Sea Diver for assembly program. Seniors noted resemblance between octopus and other local monsters.

Mar. 16 - Easter Vacation. Everybody trouped out and left old HHS to the caressing mops of the cleaner boys.

May 4 - All-School Carnival. Teachers snarling over concessions and entire crowd stumbling over pop bottles and crepe paper.

May 27 - Sophomores decorated for Baccalaureate; mothers cried; seniors nervously fidgeting with cap and gown ("Yours looks like a bag!").
